Battleplans

We will be using 5 out of the 12 battleplans in the general handbook at random (not the 6 in the core book).

The Realms

If you select your army from a realm they can use the artefacts from that realm, NO SPELLS or COMMAND ABILITIES from the realms will be in use.

Army List

Players will select their army using the Matched Play rules for Age of Sigmar. Any model that has points in the Generals Handbook 2018, later Battletomes or Forgeworld. Other compendium units are not allowed.

Submission Deadline Lists are to be submitted to greenraiderz@gmail.com by 11:59pm Friday 19th of April 2019 Lists are to be submitted as plain text in the body of an email. You can copy the output from Warscroll Builder into the email quite easily. Realm, Command Traits and Artefacts are to be noted on the army list. Prayers and spells are chosen each round before starting the battle. If a unit has different options or variations, such as a Bastiladon, this should be noted on the list. This will allow us to check and publish lists easily.

SPORTS AND PLAYER CONDUCT

As much as we don't enjoy writing this section, it's necessary to ensure that all players have an enjoyable weekend. Sections within this document deal with issues that arose during last year's event and at others through the last 12 months.

Cheating

Cheating or other socially inappropriate behavior will result in being asked to leave the tournament.

Rules disputes

All rules disputes should be resolved in one of three ways. Look in the appropriate rulebook & FAQ (including GW FAQ, roll a D6 for it, or ask a TO (Tournament Organizer). The TO will then refer you to the relevant passage in the appropriate rulebook/FAQ; or make a ruling – once a ruling has been made it is final. Just because you disagree on a rule does not mean your opponent is a bad sport. It is in the way they handle the dispute, and accepts if they are wrong, that you can see their sportsmanship. Many people have different interpretations or house rules that are not used at tournaments and these will be resolved as stated above.

Conceding a Game

Conceding a game before time is up or the game has reached its natural conclusion, will result in your opponent receiving a Major Victory and maximum kill points.

Being on Time

It's important that all players arrive at the event before the start of a round. Adequate time is provided between rounds to buy drinks and food, go to the toilet or have a cigarette. Should you not be at your table to play your game within 10 minutes of the start of a round, your opponent will gain a major victory, and you will still need to play the game for kill points.

Dropping out or failing to attend the whole event

Unless there are exceptional circumstances, players are expected to attend all rounds of the event, and stay for presentations. Should you wish to withdraw from the event early, please contact a TO as soon as possible to let them know. Failure to attend the second day without notice or withdrawing from the event early without a good excuse could result in your games not counting towards your position in the tournament and may result in your being refused entry into further Savage Northmen events.
